DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Note: Petition filed 9/2/04 requesting benefit of earlier filing date has not been granted to date.

Election/Restrictions

2. Applicant's arguments regarding the Election Requirement mailed 11/21/05 are persuasive. The Election Requirement is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Roe USPN 5607760.

As to claim 1, Roe discloses a disposable article as claimed (Figure 3) having

a) a vapor permeable backsheet 530 (col. 5, lines 60-61);
b) a liquid pervious topsheet 520 positioned in facing relation with the backsheet 530;

c) an absorbent core 540 located between said backsheet and said topsheet (Roe col. 6, lines 46-49);

and d) a skin care composition on at least a portion of a wearer-contacting surface of the absorbent article (Roe Abstract and col. 10, lines 25-31), which comprises from about 10 to about 95 weight percent of an emollient (Roe col. 17, lines 61-64) and from about 5 to about 90 weight percent of a wax (Roe col. 21, lines 35-38) .

As to claim 2, Roe discloses the composition further comprises sorbitol, which is known in the art as a viscosity increasing agent and is selected from the claimed group of materials (Roe col. 10, lines 53-62).

As to claim 3, Roe discloses the emollient is selected from the claimed group of materials (Roe col. 15, line 47 through col. 16, line 24).

As to claim 4, Roe/McCormack discloses the emollient is a petroleum-based emollient selected from the group consisting of petrolatum, mineral oil, and mixtures thereof (Roe col. 16, lines 6-33).

As to claim 5, the wax is selected from the group consisting of the claimed materials (Roe col. 21, lines 20-24).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roe USPN 5607760 in view of McCormack USPN 5695868. Roe discloses the present invention substantially as claimed. However, Roe does not disclose a vapor permeable backsheet, which defines a Water Vapor Transmission Rate of at least about 2300 grams per square meter per 24 hours, calculated according to a Water Vapor

Art Unit: 3761

Transmission Test. McCormack discloses a breathable film/nonwoven composite suitable for use as an outer cover in absorbent articles (col. 1, lines 13-26 and col. 16, lines 23-27). McCormack discloses the breathable film/nonwoven has a water vapor transmission rate of  $4100 \text{ g/m}^2/24 \text{ hrs.}$ , which is within the claimed range, (col. 15, line 65 through col. 16, line 7) for the benefit of providing breathability and reducing skin hydration (col. 16, lines 9-27). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the article of Roe with a vapor permeable backsheet having the claimed water vapor transmission rate for the benefits disclosed in McCormack. Additionally Roe discloses a breathable backsheet is desired (Roe col. 5, lines 60-62).
